FOR BIRD PRESERVES

Audubons Want Government Appropriation Kept Up.

SCOPE OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY

President Dutcher, in Annual Address, Tells of Results Accomplished in 1907—Bird Reservations Are Places of Refuge—Association in Strong and Vigorous Condition.

New York, Oct. 28.—An extension of the scope of the biological survey and more bird preserves were urged by William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, in his address to the annual meeting of the association in the Museum of Natural History this afternoon.

"I would urge the continuance of the biological survey," said President Dutcher. "Sixty thousand dollars is appropriated annually for this bureau of the Department of Agriculture. This is about the cost of one twelve-inch double-steel gun. The $60,000 is furnished the biological survey for the purpose of developing information regarding the economic value of birds, which saves millions of dollars annually."

Among the results accomplished by the society in 1907, President Dutcher named an act passed by the legislature of South Carolina, conferring upon the Audubon Society the powers and duties of a game commission; a resolution passed at the international conference of cotton growers at Atlanta, demanding the protection of wild birds, and calling on Congress to continue the biological survey with increased appropriation, in order that it may more rapidly determine the economic relation of wild birds to agriculture; legislation "for a most advanced character" in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Connecticut, and a bird survey of the Louisiana coast, west of the Mississippi delta, paving the way for two additional reservations.

Six bird reservations have been added during the past year and are now under the direct supervision of the Department of Agriculture. Two of them are in Louisiana. The last, on the Oregon coast, was established by an order signed October 14. "The reservations we are securing are the beginning of the plan of refuges," said President Dutcher, "but the Federal government owns no land in any of the thirteen original States or in Texas. In these four States the proposed system can only be secured by purchase or by legislative act. The authorities of New York should adopt the plan at once and establish a large number of bird refuges in the Adirondacks. The setting aside of land for refuge simply means that when a bird or animal reaches this sacred precinct its life is safe. It does not necessarily mean that the land cannot be used by man."

Association Strong and Vigorous.

President Dutcher said that the association is now in a strong and vigorous condition, with an endowment of nearly $50,000. But the association is not yet endowed sufficiently, Mr. Dutcher says, and the membership is still under 1,000, notwithstanding the efforts to increase it. "If a million or more dollars are lost through the mismanagement of a bank or other fiduciary institution," he said, "it creates a wave of protest throughout the entire country; yet a loss estimated by government experts at $90,000 annually, equal to the entire capitalization of the national banks of the country, through insect and rodent pests, creates no comment whatever, simply because the public does not realize what is going on."

Frank M. Chapman, assistant curator in the museum, gave a lecture on the American egret, which is being exterminated by millinery makers. He suggested a great reserve for the bird.

The following list of officers of the association was re-elected: President, William Dutcher; first vice president, John E. Thayer; second vice president, Theodore S. Palmer, M. D.; secretary, Frank M. Chapman.

DISCUSSES THE SCHOOLS.

Mr. L. I. Wrenn Defends Mr. Ashford's Action.

In connection with the Oyster-Ashford controversy on the condition of "Local School Buildings," which has been the subject of considerable discussion lately, the following communication to the Commissioners, received yesterday, is of interest:

"Gentlemen—As a private citizen of the District of Columbia, I beg to be permitted to express my opinion as to the statement of Capt. Oyster relative to school buildings. From a personal knowledge, gained by eleven years of personal observation, I feel qualified in saying that the school buildings of the District are kept in the very best condition under the superintendence of Mr. Snowden Ashford, inspector of buildings, and Mr. Henry Story, superintendent of the District repair shops.

"I know that Mr. Story has carefully inspected every school building under his care, and left nothing undone to see that all proper repairs were made, and made in the best manner. It does seem to me that Capt. Oyster is less qualified to pass upon matters affecting buildings and building construction than men who have spent their lives in this work.

"I am of the opinion that the control of schools in the District is properly in the hands of the Commissioners, who have shown their competency to handle questions coming before them. Very truly,

L. I. WRENN.

Teachers to Get Their Salaries.

There seems little likelihood of delay in the payment of the local school teachers' salaries for the month of October. Both the secretary of the board of education and Arthur Tweedale report things as progressing favorably, and the checks should be ready within a day or so after the first of the month.

DEDICATE NEW SYNAGOGUE

Addas Israel Temple, Costing $100,000, to Open Next Month.

Ranks Among Handsomest Places of Worship in City—Rabbi to Be Chosen.

Elaborate preparations are in progress for the formal opening and dedication of the new synagogue of the Addas Israel congregation. It is expected that the ceremony will take place about the middle of November. Prominent rabbis from every section of the country will be present, and eminent speakers will be heard.

The new edifice is located at the corner of Sixth and I streets northwest, and has cost approximately $100,000. It is considered one of the finest temples of worship in this city. Simon Oppenheimer is the president of the congregation, and it was under his direction, assisted by the other officers, that the many difficulties which from time to time presented themselves in the erection of the building, were successfully overcome.

The board of directors of the congregation have received a number of applications for the vacancy of rabbi of the synagogue, and Mr. Oppenheimer will extend invitations to the best known candidates to officiate at the Sabbath services, in order to give the members of the congregation an opportunity to convince themselves of the efficiency of their future spiritual advisor.

The ladies' auxiliary of the temple has instituted a Sabbath school, which already numbers seventy-five children. Mrs. Simon Oppenheimer is the president of the auxiliary, and the Misses Harmel and Dora Steerman have volunteered their services as teachers.

A dramatic entertainment and concert have been arranged by the ladies' auxiliary, to be held at the National Rites' Armory Thanksgiving night, the proceeds to go to the building fund.

FLOWERS ATTRACT MANY.

Hundreds of People View the Display of Chrysanthemums.

Hundreds of visitors yesterday passed through the greenhouse in which the department of Agriculture is giving its annual chrysanthemum show.

The big greenhouse, filled with all sorts of these beautiful flowers, was opened to the public at 9 o'clock, but the visitors did not begin to arrive until about 10.

From that hour almost to the time of closing, last night, with the exception of the noon and supper hours, there were constantly in the greenhouse a large number of flower lovers.

While many took occasion to see this display, said to be unequalled in this country, the majority of those who made the visit were women. The bright dresses of the many visitors, mingled with the delicate flower shades, made a pleasing picture.

The chrysanthemums will be on exhibition for, perhaps, ten days, or until they have ceased blooming. In that time it is expected many of the government officials and diplomats will have seen them.
